The UB School of Social Work in collaboration with the New York State Office of Mental Health is offering free suicide prevention training to agency providers within the 19 counties of the Western Region who provide mental health services to adults, children and youth.

Free Training!

Adolescent Suicide: Assessment, Intervention, & Prevention

David A. Jobes, PhD, ABPP

Instructor: David A. Jobes, PhD, ABPP, Board Certified Clinical Psychologist (American Board of Professional Psychology), licensed in Washington DC; member of the American Psychological Association, the American Association of Suicidology, the International Association for Suicide Prevention, and the International Academy of Suicide Research; Professor of Psychology and Co-Director of Clinical Training in the PhD clinical psychology training program at The Catholic University of America. Dr. Jobes has published extensively in suicide prevention; he consults widely and routinely provides professional training in clinical suicidology and maintains a clinical practice. He is co-author of the book Adolescent Suicide: Assessment and Intervention published by the American Psychological Association.

Overview: This training will focus on suicide risk in adolescents, both male and female. Through a varied and lively presentation format, you will learn how to recognize and intervene with suicidal adolescents. Numerous case studies, role-plays, and videotaped interviews will be used to illustrate points and demonstrate techniques. Topic areas covered will include: cutting-edge clinical research, training in differential assessments of suicidality, training in differential treatments of suicidal states, (e.g., acute vs. chronic risk), ethical considerations, and countertransference considerations.

Learning Objectives:

- Understand the incidence and risk profiles of adolescent suicidality in clinical practice
- Differentially assess the risk of suicidal adolescent patients
- Effectively treat suicidal adolescent patients, particularly in outpatient practice
- Use a new empirically-based approach – the CAMS model – for the assessment and treatment of adolescent suicidality
- Provide effective clinical practice that should be protective in relation to potential malpractice liability
